For Immediate Release

California Democratic Gubernatorial Candidate, Meet Kevin Paffrath, proposes $2,000/month Stimulus for Students.

The 18-month pause on federal, student debt due to the covid-19 pandemic is ending soon. Many student-loan borrowers will soon have to start making payments again. With $1.7 trillion dollars in student debt nationally, the issue of unaffordable college and high unemployment in California needs to be addressed. 7.5% of Californians are unemployed with a disproportionate effect on Blacks and Hispanics.

California Democratic Gubernatorial Candidate, Meet Kevin Paffrath, is proposing that students of Future Schools be given $2,000 per month. His Future School plan involves combining high school, college, financial education, and vocational schools for 70% of students. This would provide an optional career path for students in high school and adults over 18 who want to go back to school to get trained for a high-paying, in-demand career while being paid $2,000 per month. The focus is simple: Providing an educated workforce, focused on building individual wealth, and providing workers with careers where starting salaries are 5 to 7 times higher than the poverty line.
