July 5, 2022- The Barber Vintage Motorsports Museum in Birmingham, Alabama, USA was host to another impressive collector motoring auction held by Henderson Auctions. This is the second of Henderson's Collector Motor Series auctions held at the Barber Museum, with the next scheduled for November 5th, 2022. With a limited offering of 115 lots, including motorcycles and scooters and just 94 cars, the auction resulted in over $10 million in sales. The auction was held in the Grand Atrium of the Barber Museum on Saturday June 25th and followed a VIP preview party held the evening before. Both the preview party and the auction were well attended by collector motoring enthusiasts from around the world.

“The June Collector Motor Series auction was wildly successful.”, said Lawrence Green, CEO of Henderson Auctions. “We couldn’t be more excited with the results for our clients. It is a sincere privilege to be able to hold our auctions at the Barber Vintage Motorsports Museum. I believe it is the finest motoring museum in the world and it’s always a pleasure to work with Mr. Barber and his team. We are already planning our Fall auction to be held Saturday, October 29, 2022, and our Spring auction in May of 2023.”

The June 2022 Henderson Collector Motor Series auction had some impressive cars on offer for bidders to pursue, including race cars, American muscle cars, Pre-War American and European classics, and exotics.

The top cars sold in Birmingham included:

1939 Bugatti Type 57C Gangloff Coupe \(Lot #65\)- \$1,100,000 >

1937 Delahaye 135 Coupe Des Alpes \(Lot #64\) - \$748,000 >

“My father, Marvin Henderson, founded our family auction firm 65 years ago.”, said Jeff Henderson, President of Henderson Auctions. “While we are known as leaders in the construction equipment, heavy truck, and commercial maritime auction industry, the collector car auctions have always been a passion. My father would be proud of what we are accomplishing with our Collector Motor Series division. After all, what could be more fun than putting people in their dream cars?”

None of the Barber collection is for sale or included in the auction. This is a private auction held by Henderson Auctions conducted at the Barber Vintage Motorsports Museum.
