Agilious is the First Organization in the United States to offer Agile Finance Certified Training

First Agile Finance training accredited by the International Consortium for Agile (ICAgile) Coming to Virginia and California

Bethesda, MD – January 7, 2020 – Agilious LLC (Agilious) is the first organization in the United States to offer Agile Finance training accredited by the International Consortium for Agile (ICAgile). The course fully explores financial management in agile environments and works to identify the roles and process that must be supported to breakdown silos and enable organizational agility.

This certification is part of a specialized journey within ICAgile’s Business Agility track and is aimed at people in organizational functions focusing on the allocation and use of funds. Participants will come away ready to implement new ways of thinking and working in the finance, accounting and procurement areas. Successful completion of the course will also result in achievement of a knowledge-based certification, designating each participant as an ICAgile Certified Professional in Agile Finance (ICP-FIN).

Manjit Singh, Agilious President stated, “We are excited to receive ICAgile’s accreditation for Agile Finance. We are eager to serve Agile professionals in finance, technology, project management and in leadership roles throughout the U.S. to enhance their interest in learning about Agile methods and practices. Agilious’ services are designed to meet the needs of organizations who want to improve their business agility.”

“We are excited for Agilious to bring the Agile Finance course to the United States,” added ICAgile’s Director of Agile Learning, Christina Hartikainen. “As the world of work continues to evolve, more organizations are embracing Business Agility. The Agile Finance course is an important step on a Business Agility-focused learning journey.”

Based in the Washington DC metro area, Agilious has helped hundreds of enterprises and several thousand professionals get trained, acquire certifications, and upskill their employees. A leading training provider in disciplines such as Scrum, SAFe, Agile Project Management, Agile Business Analysis, and Agile Facilitation among others, Agilious specializes where technologies and best practices are changing rapidly and demand for qualified candidates significantly exceeds supply. Agilious' agile training courses are designed and taught by industry experts. Our vibrant community of experts and certified professionals is a powerful resource pool of tips, tricks, and insightful advice.

Steve Milligan, Finance Director and Enterprise Agile Coach stated, "I am honored and looking forward to delivering this course and empowering Agile Teams across the United States to improve their operations and business agility." Steve, a former corporate Controller, is a member of the ICAgile team that developed the learning objectives for the Finance course and is the developer of the Agilious course.

Prospective participants can learn more about the course, including Agilious' upcoming classes in McClean and San Diego, at <http://bit.ly/agiliousfinance>.
