

Oddball Awarded Veteran-facing Services Platform Contract

May 24, 2019

WASHINGTON -- Oddball, Inc., a technology solutions provider dedicated to digital modernization of federal services, was awarded the Veteran-facing Services Platform (VSP) support contract by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA). The VSP contract is a three-year, $78 million program supporting the Office of Information Technology (OIT) and the Digital Services team at VA (DSVA).

Under the VSP program, Oddball will provide product and delivery management, software development, user research, content management, DevOps support, data analytics, and platform operation and management to VA.

“We are honored to support VA and their vision of a modern digital experience for Veterans to learn about, apply for, and manage their VA benefits in an effective, efficient, and compassionate manner,” said Travis Sorensen, Oddball chief executive officer. “As a Veteran, I understand the importance of achieving this vision. The entire Oddball team is excited to continue bringing our user-centered agile delivery process to this effort.”

To deliver the scope of work needed for the VSP contract, Oddball formed a team that includes Ad Hoc LLC, The So Company, and Empirical Path to deliver additional depth and breadth across the full scope of the VSP program.
