Skyline Financial FCU and Turnkey Processing Announce New Partnership

Skyline Financial Federal Credit Union, Waterbury, CT, and Turnkey Processing, Meriden, CT, are proud to announce a new partnership that benefits small businesses across New England.

Skyline and Turnkey spent over one year developing a program specifically designed to help entrepreneurs succeed, and compete on a level playing field with national chains. Through the partnership, small businesses will gain access to the essential building blocks they'll need to scale. This includes POS software, Merchant Services with local support, local consultative banking, low-cost capital, digital marketing, website, social media services, and modern networking events designed to connect them with local entrepreneurs and new customers.

"We're excited about our new partnership with Skyline, and the impact it will make on local businesses here in Connecticut," says Steven Martorelli, CEO Turnkey Processing.

Finding a trusted partner in banking and merchant services can be difficult for many small businesses, and both Martorelli and James Higgins, CEO Skyline Financial Credit Union, are committed to providing them the support and service they need.

"With Skyline headquartered in Waterbury and Turnkey headquartered in Meriden, Steve and I live, work, and support our communities every day, and we recognize the challenges of rising expenses. We've made it our mission to focus on helping our local businesses with low or no cost alternatives to banking and card processing," says Higgins.

The hope of the two companies is that through this partnership, they can offer services to small businesses that otherwise may not be able to afford them.
