Beauty Crush: Erin Heatherton Shares Her No-Makeup Glowing Skin Secrets!

By Gwen Flanberg April 14, 2017

Natural beauty! Sure, one could argue that anyone who's a supermodel hit the genetic jackpot, but few have skin so flawless (not to mention confidence in spades) that they rarely wear a stitch of makeup. Such is the case with Erin Heatherton, the fresh-scrubbed 28-year-old Illinois native who believes that "radiating joy" trumps lipstick. Stylish chats with Heatherton (who had dated Leonardo DiCaprio) about her low-key approach to beauty.

Stylish: Speaking of Adore, what is it about being connected to the brand that makes sense for you?

Heatherton: I love the concept and message behind the brand's Adore Yourself campaign. Plus, they only use organic ingredients and I share the same holistic approach to beauty and skincare. My skin has truly never looked healthier since I started using the line. The Golden Touch Magnetic Mask is my obsession — it's INSANE! Using it the first time was probably more exciting than trying/wearing mascara for the first time — taking it off was more fun than I can even explain.

The Best Face Masks For Beautiful Skin

Sarah Boyd, CONTRIBUTOR

Luxe

For skin that looks like a million bucks, you'll need some precious metals to do the trick. Gold and diamond masks are luxurious and give your skin the five-star treatment, and currently loving the masks that use magnets (yes, you read that right) to magically wipe the product away. These ultra-glam masks are worth the splurge.

OK, so this magnet facial mask may be the price of rent, but having the chance to use pure gold on your face totally feels hella awesome. We can dream, right?

Adding some gold beauty products routine may seem excessive, but it can be a great way to brighten your skin and treat yourself to a beauty treatment you totally deserve! ♥

GLAMOUR

I Tried a $1,000 24-Karat Gold Face Mask, and It Was an Emotional Journey

Before we begin, there are two things you should know:

This is not a sponsored post. The face mask in question (Adore Cosmetics Golden Touch Magnetic Facial Mask), as many products do, made its way to the Glamour beauty department, where I, not knowing its market value, picked it up because it was shiny. I have no relationship with or loyalty to any beauty brand. This is because...

I don't know sh-t about beauty. My skin is pretty sensitive, so once I find a product that doesn't irritate it, I just stick with that. I don't experiment, I don't watch tutorials, I don't do "looks." I'm the pop culture writer! I know how to do my makeup for work and (kinda) for evening events. I know how to straighten my hair. I really don't have the patience to learn anything else. So while I promise that this is an unbiased, factual account of what happened when I used a $995 mask (plus tax), you should also be aware that I don't totally know what I'm doing. But isn't that the testimonial you want to hear anyway? Let's begin.

It's a Friday night, and I've committed myself to an evening of at-home spa services by applying a hair mask (another win, as well as the reason my hair looks like butt in these pictures). I wipe my face with a makeup-removing towelette and decide that it's probably clean enough for me to apply the mask. I briefly wonder if I'm supposed to be applying the cream with a popsicle stick or something, but I'm glad I decide to use my fingers because even though it's grainy (metallic/magnetic), it's super soft and feels cool (I later learn that the pot comes with a special spatula for just this purpose; I didn't have a spatula). The moment that I put my finger in the pot, I realize that in addition to the green cream there is a spot of yellow goo. Is the goo supposed to be there? Am I supposed to mix the goo in with the cream? I can't really look it up; my fingers are covered in cream.

I ignore the goo and apply the cream. I don't know how thick of a layer I'm supposed to put on, so I just kinda...cover my face. And then there's still some on my fingers, so I wipe my fingers on my neck, because I am not washing $20 worth of cream down the drain. I'm supposed to leave the cream on for seven minutes, and I spend the seven minutes taking selfies and listening to

My skin is very oily, so I tend to opt for a lighter moisturizer. I love Kora Organics by Miranda [Kerr]—its cleanser is the product I really, really love. Neutrogena has amazing moisturizers, and I use a line called Adore. All the products are really beautiful, delicate, and gentle on your skin. 14 Ways to Treat Dark Circles and Puffy Eyes Before the Wedding

If you're battling dark circles or puffy eyes from many late, sleepless nights dreaming of your wedding, don't worry: There are lots of good creams, lotions, and potions to help fade, de-puff, and repair your tired eyes so you can look perfectly rested as you walk down the aisle. There's a good chance your soon-to-be-spouse will want to fight his or her own dark circles and tired eyes with your new beauty stash, too, making these products even more of an investment.

ADORE COSMETICS GOLDEN TOUCH 24K TECHNO-DERMIS EYE MASK

Pure 24K gold calms and equalizes electrical energy of skin in the most delicate areas of your face, absorbing down to your skin's keratin level to help halt elastin breakdown. It escorts oxygen molecules to the cellular level for deep renewal and slows down melanin secretion to diminish age spots and skin discoloration (like, you know, dark circles). But honestly, it's made with 24K gold and possibly matches your wedding band, so that's probably enough to make your heart (and eyes) sing.

9 Outrageously Luxurious Beauty Products for the 1%

We're constantly after the best bang for our buck—testing and reporting on drugstore buys that are just as effective (if not more) than their pricier counterparts. But, every once in a while, we allow ourselves to daydream about a life in which money is no object and luxury reigns supreme. This is one of those times.

Join us in relishing all things opulent, from skincare and makeup to anti-aging face masks and made-to-order vanity trinkets. Yes, they cost more than your apartment and savings account combined. Yes, you probably can't afford them. But why not live in a fantasy for a few clicks and scrolls? Truthfully, I do it all day long. Keep reading to find the most extravagant beauty gifts on the internet and help us scheme how to buy them.

Adore Cosmetics Golden Touch Magnetic Facial Mask ($995)

An anti-aging mask with "a unique combination of magnetic healing, pure gold power, and proven age-defying plant stem cells" sounds like it should cost you a pretty penny. And it does. What else do you expect when a product has visible 24-karat gold sprinkles formulated to penetrate your skin, stimulate electromagnetic energy flow through acupuncture meridians, and restore elasticity? Truth be told, if this product delivers on its claims I might consider dropping a grand to achieve the fountain of youth wonderment it boasts.

Best Splurge Beauty Holiday Gift Ideas 2016 For your friend who likes the fancy stuff.

It's the most wonderful time of the year — when luxury brands take their jaw-dropping releases to the next level with crystals, precious metals, and limited-edition gift sets. Products that already seemed pretty special during the rest of the year get upgraded to new heights, with new price tags to match. Keeping track of the priciest picks of the season is one of our favorite activities, partly to marvel at all the beautiful releases, and partly because some of the things we see are TBH totally unattainable (we're looking at you, $3,300 sheet mask). That said, we'll never tire of marveling. Our splurge gift guide this year includes a mix of price points, some fairly reasonable, and others that will give even the most seasoned luxury lover slight sticker shock. So, you can gravitate toward the lower end of the spectrum, and pick up an under $70 hair oil that feels all kinds of fancy. Or, if you're ready to give your wallet a workout, there are also gold face masks, diamond serums, and lip balm bouquets just waiting to be unwrapped by your BFFs. Either way, you're sure to enter high-end heaven soon.

Adore Cosmetics Golden Touch 24K Techno-Dermis Facial Mask, $3,300.

Give your friends the fanciest DIY spa day ever with these 24-karat gold sheet masks that leave skin glowing. (The luxe factor alone should bring a smile to their faces.) Plant stem cells and lavender help speed up cell turnover, for instantly smoother, plumper skin. And the gold? Well, that makes for a great selfie.

WOULD YOU USE A MAGNET TO REMOVE YOUR MASK OR APPLY YOUR LASHES?

BY JACQUELINE ARIAS

Magnetic products are becoming one of the hottest beauty trends right now. You probably think that putting a magnet on cosmetics is gimmicky. But Dr. Whitney Bowe tells Daily Mail that it's been used since the ancient times. And when added to skincare products, the electromagnetic currents will rejuvenate and hydrate the skin.

But aside from skincare, we also found other cosmetic items that utilized magnets. We promise you, some of these will surprise you.

Adore Cosmetics, known for their $3,000 24K gold dermis mask, also came out with a magnetic facial mask. The Golden Touch Magnetic Facial Mask is said to be an anti-aging mask "with a unique combination of magnetic healing, pure gold power and proven age-defying plant stem cells." It also comes with a gold magnet to pull off the mask after application. However, this costs a hefty $995 so this is a pretty big investment.

Why Green Means Great Skin

ADORE COSMETICS FOUNDER SHAY SEGEV IS LEVERAGING ORGANIC INNOVATION THAT PAIRS TOP TECHNOLOGY WITH AGE-OLD INGREDIENTS.

Adore Cosmetics is acquiring more boutique stores worldwide in an effort to give customers the opportunity to experience its innovative skincare line before making their purchase. President and CEO of Adore Cosmetics Shay Seggev calls it the knowledgeable shopping experience. For him and his team, it's important that individuals understand that Adore Cosmetics has an organically innovative approach. He says, "Many of our products are organically based and take advantage of leading-edge beauty technology involving plant stem cells, such as our Cellmax Kit and Golden Touch Magnetic Facial Mask. So the natural approach and the way that people experience instant results at stores seem to make all the difference." Seggev is grateful to see the growth of Adore Cosmetics. He says, "We owe it to our customers, really. They spread the word about our products, and more and more franchisees have approached us to open stores featuring Adore products." He continues, "I see a bright future for our company, but nevertheless hard work and persistence are both a must to continue our success."

OUT NOW
Fences
Years from now, people will still be talking about Denzel Washington's and Viola Davis' towering performances in this searing adaptation of August Wilson's Pulitzer Prize-winning play. In 1950s Pittsburgh, a former Negro League baseball player (Washington) grapples with his decidedly blue-collar life as a garbageman. He unleashes his frustrations by forbidding his teen son, a star athlete, from playing college football and by cheating on his doting wife (Davis). From a visual standpoint, there's nothing to see here — most of the stage-very film consists of extended, free-flowing dialogue in the family's backyard. It takes special actors to turn a small-scale drama into a riveting gem, and the superb Washington and Davis (who both reprise their Tony Award-winning roles) pull off the challenge with amazing aplomb. MARA REINSTEIN
