Morristown, N.J. – June 15, 2020 – Hoy Health, LLC announced today the launch of HoyDoc+, the first fully Spanish and English language Telemedicine program, offering consumers convenient, affordable access to doctor consultations and a one month supply of medication from a selection of over 600 prescription drugs, all at a low price. The program is available in Arizona, California, Georgia, Illinois, Maryland, New York, Puerto Rico, Rhode Island, and Texas, and will roll out to other markets throughout 2020.

“Telemedicine is now more important than ever, especially because of the COVID-19 crisis, which has caused over 44 million Americans to lose their jobs and their access to healthcare, says Mario Anglada, CEO, Hoy Health. Through its partnership with the National Hispanic Medical Association (NHMA), Hoy Health has built a network of US certified and bilingual healthcare providers.

HoyDoc+ has been launched with strong support from, and in partnership with the NHMA, the premier organization representing Hispanic healthcare professionals in the USA. “When Hoy Health called, we immediately knew we wanted to support it”, said Dr. Elena Rios, President and CEO of NHMA. “We represent over 50,000 healthcare professionals who deeply care about underserved communities, and how to improve health quality and equity. This program supports our mission and helps our members directly help patients”.
